“L’Escale”

A circus tale for young and old

L'escale

- Street show
- Duration : 30 minutes
- For a family audience
- Recommended from 4 years old
- Trailer video

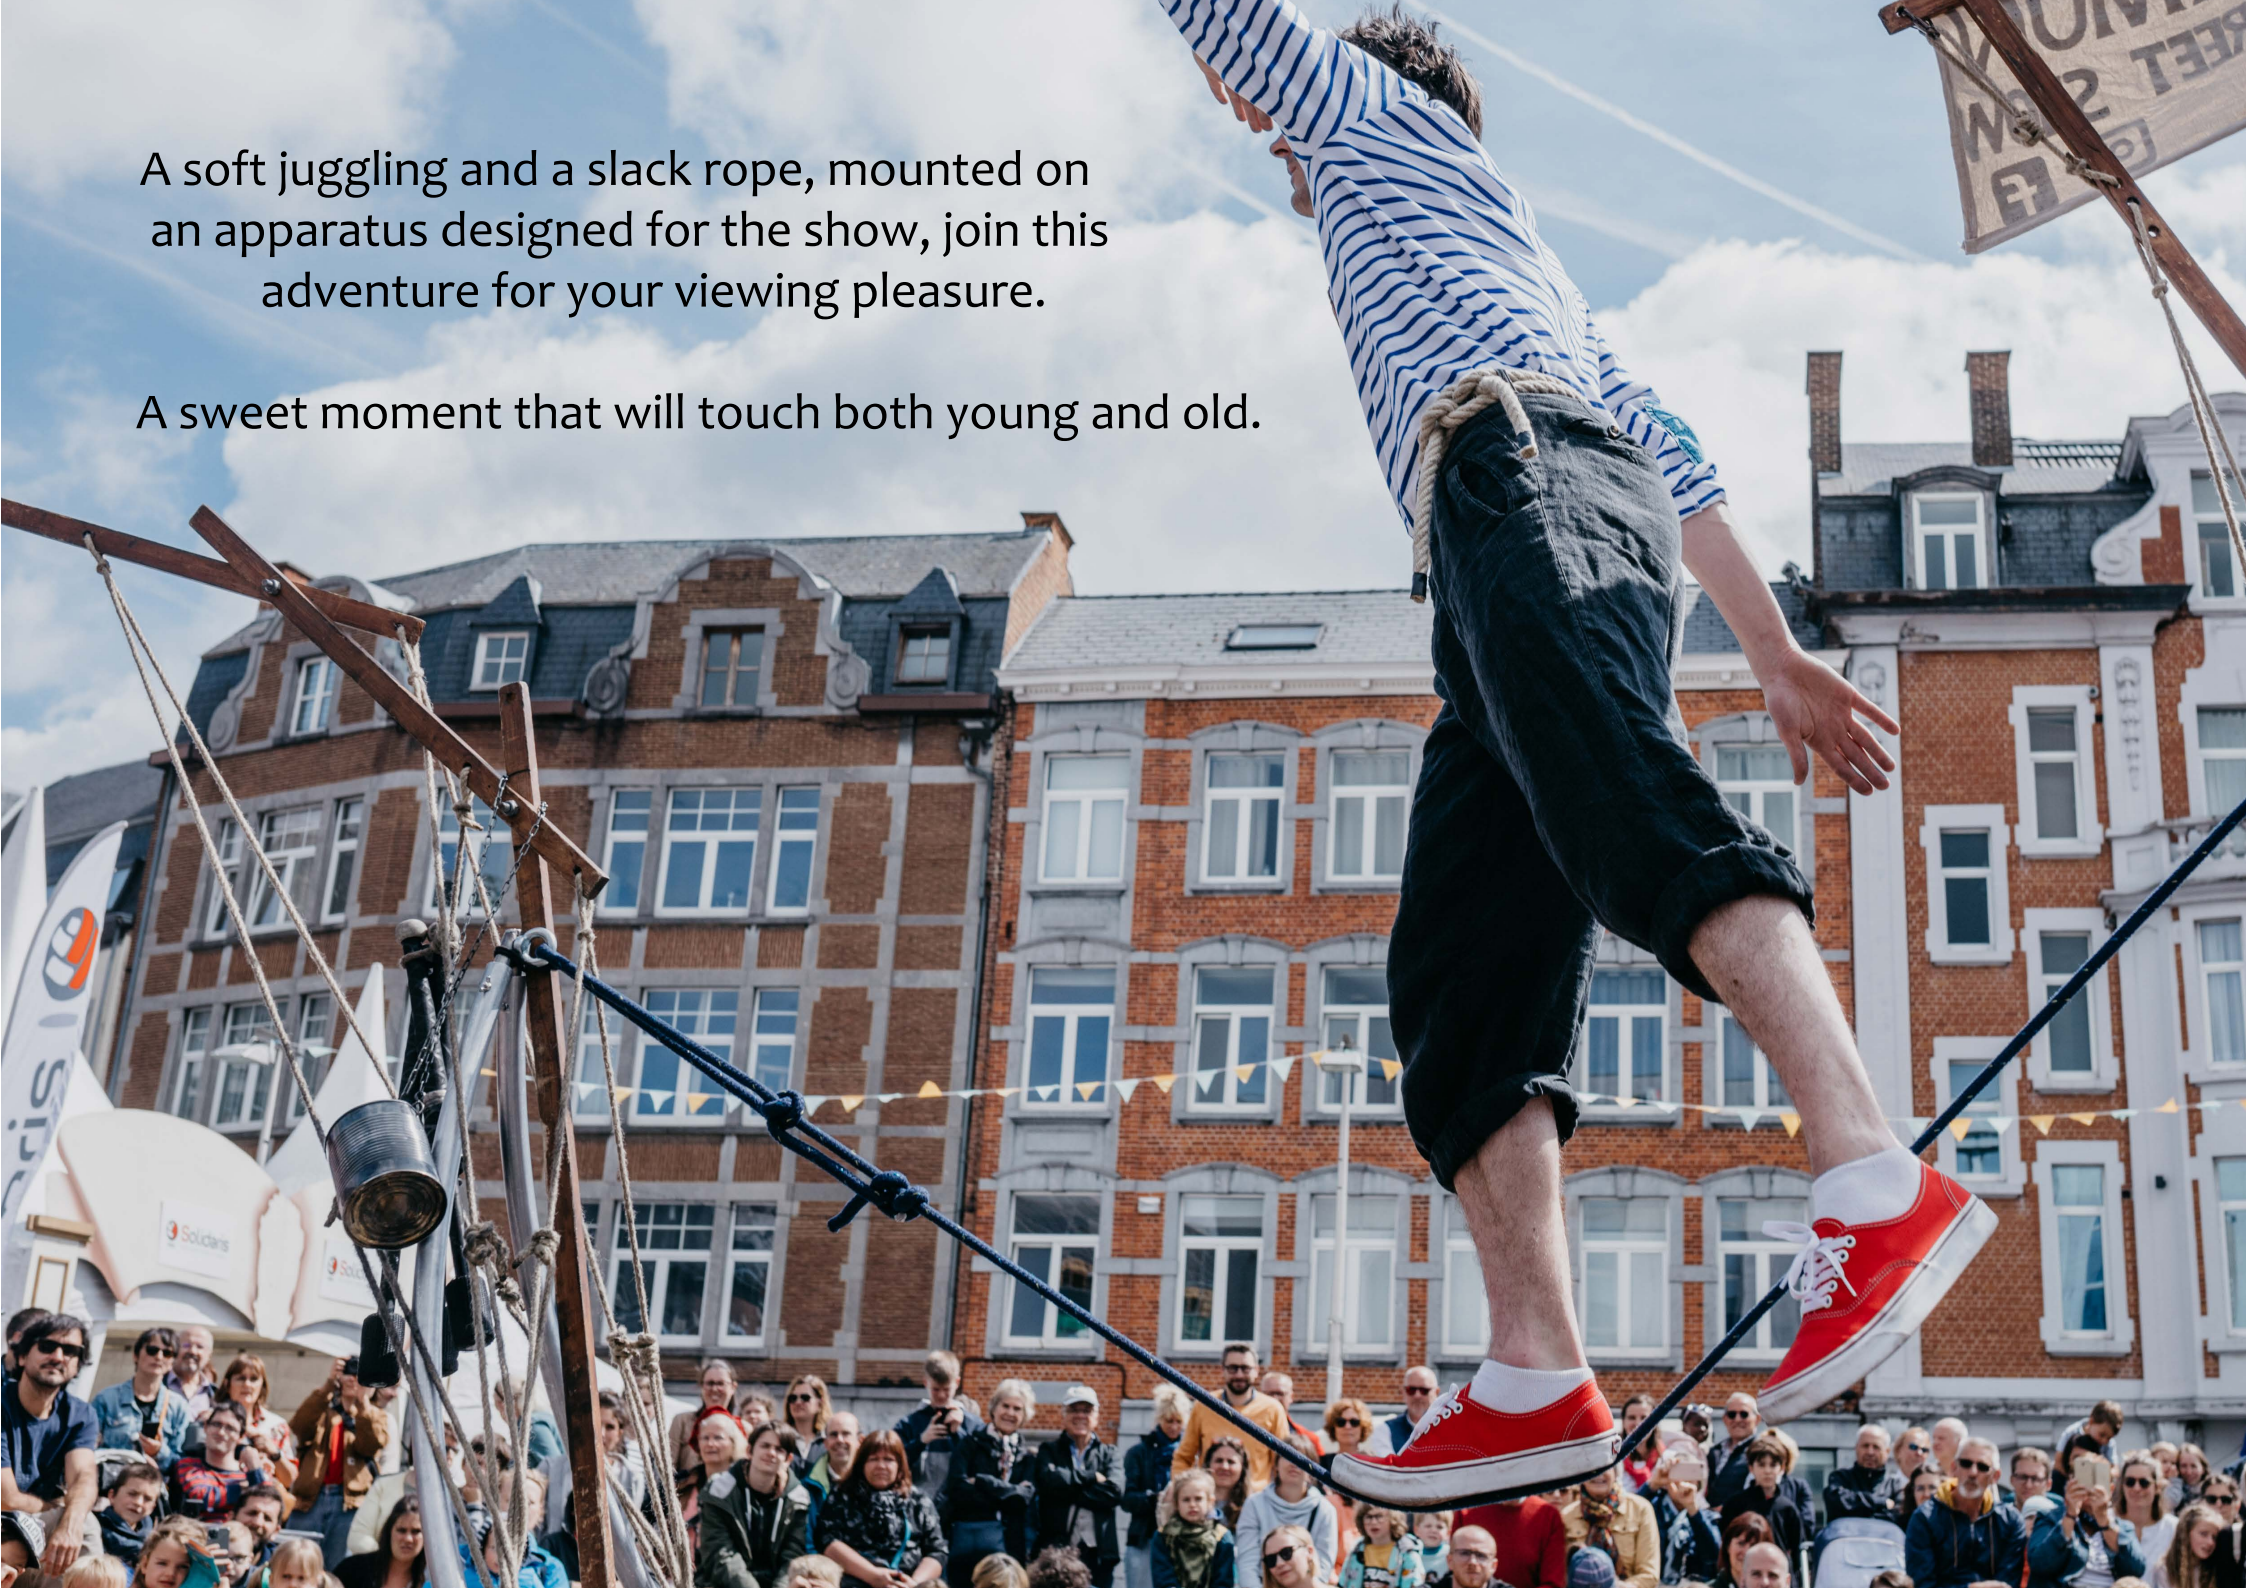

“L’escale” is a circus tale: the wordless story of an encounter on an imaginary island with a spectator.

In a poetic universe that grows as the story unfolds, this tale speaks of traveling, sharing and leaving.

A soft juggling and a slack rope, mounted on an apparatus designed for the show, join this adventure for your viewing pleasure.

A sweet moment that will touch both young and old.

Simon Street Show

It is in the street that you are most likely to see Simon. Since 2017, he has been transforming public spaces into ephemeral theaters where he sets up his universe to tell stories, played with poetry and lightness.

A circus performer, juggler and rope walker, his work is shaped by the different courses and workshops he has taken and continues to take. His influences are diverse: physical theater, dance and clown. This led him to meet different teachers: Oliver Pollak, Aragorn Boulanger, Philippe Gaulier, Peter Shub, Richard Kimberley... He is now studying at the Clown school “Le Samovar” in Paris.

In 2018, he wrote the show “L’Escale” with which he has been touring since 2019. He also works with Zirkus Mond (Berlin) and Roar Circus, a duo, which he co-founded with Marc Zeun.
